

PRESS RELEASE OCTOBER 20, 2015

Stockholm Film Festival proudly presents this year's film program

Today we announce the program of the 26th edition of the Stockholm International Film Festival. More than 190 films from over 70 countries will be screened during the festival November 11-22.

- We are proud to present this year's program filled with quality films from all around the world. News of this year is the new filmsection Stockholm Impact Award, and the best documentary film will be awarded. It is also the first time we have a greater number of women than men competing for the Bronze Horse. We can also announce that the Chinese artist Ai Weiwei will visit Stockholm for the first time, says Git Scheynius, festival director Stockholm Film Festival.

Stockholm Film Festival inaugurates with Jonas Carpignano's film Mediterranea (2015). The middle film is Louder Than Bombs by Joachim Trier, starring Isabelle Huppert as one of the main characters. Carol, directed by Jean-Marc Vallée, closes the festival. Carol has also been chosen for the festival poster.

Tickets are for sale starting today, Tuesday October 20, 12 pm exclusively for members.

The Festival Centre at Kulturhuset and Gallerian, Stockholm, opens respectively on October 21st and November 2nd. You can purchase the tickets and get the festival program there.
